

Teen DV Month Twitter Chats

Adolescent Dating Abuse & Bullying: What's the Connection?

When: Wednesday, February 22 | 11-11:45 a.m. PST

Hashtag: #TeenDVandBullying

The Partnership's Twitter Handle: @cpedvcoalition

Save this chat to your calendar.

Did you know that students are five times more likely to engage in physical violence against their peers when they also caused harm in a dating relationship?[1] In this Twitter chat—which welcomes advocates, educators, parents and concerned citizens—join our conversation on the connection between bullying and adolescent dating abuse, and learn how schools can be prepared to address both through school policies. Use #TeenDVandBullying when you Tweet.

Stay tuned for the Partnership's Governance Brief on adolescent dating abuse and bullying, debuting in January 2016. In the meantime, add our Twitter Chat to your calendar!

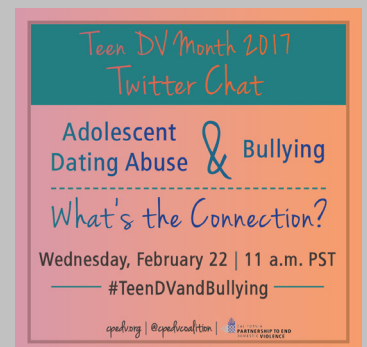

- Question 1: What causes bullying?
- Question 2: What are common bullying behaviors?
- Question 3: What causes adolescent dating abuse?
- Question 4: What occurs during adolescent dating abuse?
- Question 5: What are the intersections between bullying and adolescent dating abuse?
- Question 6: What increases the risk that a student will harm another in both bullying and dating abuse situations?
- Question 7: What decreases the risk that a student will harm another in both bullying and dating abuse situations?
- Question 8: How can schools address healthy relationship skills inside and outside the classroom?
- Question 9: What opportunities exist for students, families, and communities to engage with the school and help promote healthy adolescent relationships?

[1] Futures Without Violence. (2013). Emerging Issues Facing Tweens and Teens.
<http://startstrong.futureswithoutviolence.org/wp-content/uploads/emerging-issues-facing-tweens-and-teens.pdf>

— Shareable — Social Media Ads

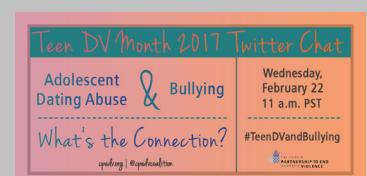

Click, save & share!

Facebook/Instagram

Where you can, include the link to the calendar invite!
<http://bit.ly/2lsxzv0>

Twitter

Where you can, include the link to the calendar invite!
<http://bit.ly/2lsxzv0>